

Practise the present perfect continuous!

i We use the present perfect continuous when we want to say that something started in the past and is still continuing now.

The present perfect continuous is formed with "has/have been" + "the ing-form of the verb" (present participle).
For example: I have been watching the TV series for a month now.

?

I have been _____ chess for two years now.

- learned
- learn
- learning

?

Lucas has been _____ for the junior marathon for a long time.

- training
- train
- trained

?

She _____ been cooking all evening, so dinner is ready soon.

- has
- had
- have

?

They _____ been building the new school for a year now.

- has
- have
- was

?

Mum has been _____ a lot.

- working
- works
- work

?

Marie has been _____ the piano for two hours now.

- practising
- practise
- practised

?

We have _____ looking after Lilly since two o'clock.

- be
- are
- been

?

Dad _____ been exercising for hours!

- has
- do
- have

?

We have been _____ about you.

- think
- thinking
- thinkin

?

They have been _____ on this project for a long time.

- works
- working
- work

?

She has _____ gaming a lot.

- was
- were
- been

?

Louisa _____ been waiting for ten minutes.

- were
- have
- has

?

I have _____ renovating my bedroom since yesterday.

- done
- was
- been